About Vanmahotsav

Van Mahotsav, which is translated as three festival (Forest day) is a week-long annual celebration dedicated to Mother Earth and is celebrated from 1st July through 7th July. This one week tree planting festival was started in the year 1950 by Kanatyala Maneklal Munshi the union minister for agriculture and food at that time by planting a tree at Rajghat, Delhi to create an enthusiasm in the mind of the people for planting and conserving trees.

It aims at creating awareness towards the conservation of forest and planting of trees among people. "Van" literally means forest and "Mahotsav" is a festival. So this festival raises awareness among the masses about the importance of trees, their plantation and conservation.

The week started to create awareness in the mind of the people for the conservation of forest and the planting of new trees. In India, it started as a crusade to save mother earth. As the onset of monsoon in India usually begins in the first week of July, it is considered an ideal choice for conducting the festival. During this time the saplings planted have more chances of survival than those planted during other times of the year.

Hence the present celebration is undertaken to highlight the following:

- It is to encourage tree planting and conservation.
- It hopes to create more forest in the country and increase the green cover of India.
- It aims at providing alternative fuels.
- It targets increasing the production of food resources.
- Creating shelter-belts around fields to increase productivity.
- It targets providing food and shade for cattle.
- It offers shade and decorative landscapes.
- To reduce drought and help to prevent soil erosion.
